

Personalities to NPC behaviour

Steven Schenk

8-09-2016

Contents

1	Introversion	2
1.1	Characteristics	2
1.2	NPC behaviour	2
2	Extraversion	2
2.1	Characteristics	2
2.2	NPC behaviour	3
3	Altruism	3
3.1	Characteristics	3
3.2	NPC behaviour	3
4	Egoism	3
4.1	Characteristics	4
4.2	NPC behaviour	4
5	Thoroughness	4
5.1	Characteristics	4
5.2	NPC behaviour	4
6	Chaotic	4
6.1	Characteristics	5
6.2	NPC behaviour	5
7	Neuroticism	5
7.1	Characteristics	5
7.2	NPC behaviour	5
8	Emotional stable	5
8.1	Characteristics	6
8.2	NPC behaviour	6

1 Introversion

Introverts, are not by definition unsociable, but they won't bend your ear. This does not necessarily mean they are shy. They behave very calm, and want to be rather alone than in big company. [3] Introverts are much more sensitive to the environment. [6]

1.1 Characteristics

1. Rather alone, walks away from people
2. Calm
3. Does not like to be in the spotlight

1.2 NPC behaviour

1. Avoiding company, walks away from other characters/npc
2. Doesn't move that much, stays on his position
3. Move to the corners of a space, not to the center
4. Doesn't start a conversation
5. When in a conversation, he doesn't say much

2 Extraversion

An extroverted person is very social towards others and likes hanging out and having chit chats. They are cheerful all the time and have a very optimistic way of looking at things. [1]

2.1 Characteristics

1. Friendly
2. Seeking for company
3. Happy
4. Alive
5. Leading person / Speaks a lot

2.2 NPC behaviour

1. Move towards other characters/npc
2. Moves a lot, very alive
3. Stay in the center of spaces
4. Starts a conversation
5. Speaks a lot

3 Altruism

Altruism is the ability to have compassion with other people. Altruistic people show respect towards other people. They are honest and are always willing to lend a hand and care for people needing help. [5]

3.1 Characteristics

1. Considerate
2. Honest
3. Respect to the peoples

3.2 NPC behaviour

1. Walk towards NPC/characters needing help
2. Tell the truth
3. Step aside for other people

4 Egoism

In philosophy, egoism is the theory that ones self is, or should be, the motivation and the goal of ones own action. [2] Egoistic people do not really care about other people. They can behave aggressive, arrogant and might even tell you a lie to make them look better. [3]

4.1 Characteristics

1. Don't care about other peoples problems
2. Not completely honest
3. Aggressive
4. Arrogant
5. No compassion

4.2 NPC behaviour

1. Walking away of people needing help
2. Tell lies
3. Don't take other people into account when moving

5 Thoroughness

People that are organized and very targeted. They are both ambitious and trustworthy. They see life as task to fulfill and are determined to complete in these tasks. [3]

5.1 Characteristics

1. Precise
2. Trustworthy
3. perseverance
4. Careful

5.2 NPC behaviour

1. Does not tell (many) lies

6 Chaotic

Chaotic people are very disorganized and are willing to bend the rules. They do not experience stress, even if they are failing in their tasks. They are very flexible. [3]

6.1 Characteristics

1. Disorganized
2. Quitters
3. Flexible

6.2 NPC behaviour

1. ??

7 Neuroticism

Neuroticism is a long-term tendency to be in a negative emotional state. Neurotics tend to have more depressed moods. They suffer from feelings as guilt, envy, anger and anxiety. They are very sensitive sensitive to enviromental sensitive. [4]

7.1 Characteristics

1. Depressed moods
2. Shy, self-conscious
3. Emotional instable

7.2 NPC behaviour

1. Hide in the corners of a space
2. Cries out of nothing
3. Cries in stressful situations

8 Emotional stable

Emotional stable people do not worry fast and are very stable in what they doing. You can not get them out of their flow easily. They are pleased with themselves and tend to be very calm in stresful situations. [3]

8.1 Characteristics

1. Calm
2. Relaxed
3. Pleased with themselves

8.2 NPC behaviour

1. Remain calm in stressful situations

References

- [1] C. BEUKEBOOM, Extraverte en introverte mensen en hun taalgebruik.
- [2] A. MOSELEY, Egoism.
- [3] M. NIEUWENHUIS, Wat is de big five persoonlijkheidstheorie?
- [4] C. NORDQVIST, What is neuroticism? what causes neurosis?
- [5] S. OVERGAAUW, empathie is altruïsme met een snufje egoïsme.
- [6] E. SLUYS, Wat is introversie?